City Council given overview of Sheriff's services

by Lindy Magner

Tuesday, the City Council's lunchtime workshop meeting was in effect replaced by a five-hour session in which directors of each city department and other employees presented overview information, mostly to acquaint the new council members with the city's operations.

Included in the presentations was a report from Sheriff's Capt. Bill Flores, commander of the Lemon Grove Substation. The city contracts with the county Sheriff's Department for law enforcement services.

The substation also serves Spring Valley, Mount Helix, Jamul and the unincorporated areas of El Cajon and has one of the heaviest workloads of substations in the county, according to Flores.

With the city's budget for fiscal 1994-95, the contract with the Sheriff's Department was increased, with the position of a five-day, without relief deputy replaced with a seven-day, with relief deputy position, giving the city six, seven-day with relief patrol deputies. Flores said that with the relief element figured in, 10.2 deputies are assigned specifically to Lemon Grove.

Two patrol car units are assigned to the city, during all of the three shifts. Also, the city contracts for one community service officer (CSO) who is not a sworn deputy and cannot make arrests. Duties of the CSO include writing crime reports and parking citations and dealing with low-priority matters such as vehicle abatement and traffic control.

While the cost to the city for a deputy is $240,000, the cost of a CSO is about $30,000. City Manager Doug Yount said it may be possible in the near future to increase the city's contract by adding another CSO.

Also, the city contracts for four traffic-control units, two of which are motorcycle units.

The contract also brings the investigative services of detectives, three of whom are assigned to the city, Flores explained.

Flores said that the most common citizen complaints are "what took the deputy so long to get here?" and "why weren't you answering your phones?"

He explained that all calls made to Sheriff's substations after regular business hours are handled by the central communications center, something which the department would like to change in the future so that the substations will have their own dispatchers in addition to the centralized system. However, any such change is at least five years into the future, he said.

As far as the response time of deputies, Flores said that though it has slightly improved over the last several years, the current 9.4-minute response time average is still higher than what is considered acceptable, an 8-minute response time.

Crime statistics gathered and analyzed by the San Diego Association of Governments (SANDAG), show that since 1991, Lemon Grove has improved its crime-rate standing compared to the other jurisdictions in the county. Statistics show that in 1991, the city had the tenth-lowest crime rate out of the 19 jurisdictions; in 1992, it ranked ninth and in 1993, it ranked eighth. So far this year, as of August, the city is ranked eighth.

Flores described Lemon Grove as "a relatively quiet community," especially when compared to neighboring Spring Valley.

Councilwoman Mary Sessom commented that the public perception here that crime is increasing, not decreasing, is not borne out by the statistics, and wondered what could be done to correct this perception among the city's residents.

Flores agreed: "The perception is that we're not doing very well and crime is running rampant. But the city is doing well, and I think it's because of the high level of involvement of residents with their community and programs such as the Senior Volunteer Patrol."

Flores said this "perception problem" is aided by fear brought by a change in the nature of crimes: "Though the number of violent crimes has decreased, the violent crimes which are occurring are more severe - there are now many more shootings and assaults with deadly weapons."

Lt. Dave Herbert said that the safety factor for citizens has decreased, with the advent of carjackings and criminals who are more bold.

Yount commented that there has been a "serious increase in violent crimes committed by youths."

Marlee McGraw, substation crime specialist, noted that half of all residential burglaries occur because a home-owner left the garage door open, providing easy access. She said an effort is now under way to inform residents of this danger, so that hopefully the burglary rate can be reduced.

Gang-related problems hit Lemon Grove Avenue

by Lindy Magner

At a recent meeting of the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce, several Lemon Grove Avenue business persons expressed concern about youths who emulate gang behavior and attract other youths and gang conflicts to their storefronts.

According to one store employee who did not want to be identified, youths have been gathering at a strip of shops for about a year, drawn there mainly by a pizza establishment with video games.

Once school is dismissed, some Lemon Grove Middle School students congregate in front of the shops, hanging around for an hour or so.

Fights have broken out between rival gangs, and gang signs have been flashed, the employee said, adding that last week, Sheriff's deputies made two arrests of juveniles, for loitering and fighting.

"I'm very concerned; there's a tremendous amount of fear. I've been told that it's just a matter of time before the shops are sprayed with gunfire."

The concerned employee said the situation "had gotten so bad" last spring that employees were breaking up fights and the middle school principal and her staff were standing behind and in front of the shopping center in the afternoons.

Lemon Grove Middle School Principal Nancy Merino said that several weeks ago, a gang conflict occurred among high school students who were former middle school students, and who were mixing with the younger students. She said the conflict between rival gangs began with a fight in Fireman's Park, across from the school, and a retaliation had been expected to occur at the pizza shop.

"After the fight in the park, we heard that the other group was coming back, so we called the Sheriff's and they sent out patrol cars, so nothing happened," she explained.

Merino said that as a matter of routine, she or her vice principal and other staff stand in the parking lot behind Bank of America as well as other locations to ensure the safe walk home of students.

"We try our best to make sure they get out of here and home safely, but we can't keep them from going or hanging out anywhere. It's up to the pizza place to say you can't hang around here," she said.

A manager at the pizza shop who asked that his name not be used, said he had no problem with youths congregating in and around the shop.

"I haven't seen them flash gang signs. Yes, the 13-year-olds think they're little gangsters but they're probably just acting like they've seen big brother do," he said.

He said he has no fear of shootings or any other trouble occurring at the shops, and feels some merchants in the center have "blown" the situation completely out of proportion.

However, Hura Murphy, executive director of San Diego Youth Involvement, a local organization which works with gang members and troubled youth, disagrees.

"I've seen this for myself. It's got to be cleaned up before those stores are sprayed with gunfire and someone's going to be hurt," he said, noting that he witnessed a confrontation when stopping by the pizza shop a few weeks ago.

"There was a bunch of little wanna-be gang members hanging around. A pickup truck drove up, and the guys in it flashed signs of a rival gang. The kids responded with vulgar language and then took off belts and ran over to the truck. I'm sure the guys in the truck had guns," he said, adding that he felt no shots were fired because the older gang members were only "teasing" this time.

"The situation is growing and becoming more serious," he said, explaining that now there are gang members hanging out with the younger wanna-bes.

At the chamber meeting, Chamber President Ron Skillman, Union Bank Lemon Grove branch manager and vice president, commented that the fence was erected last year between the bank parking lot and Thrifty, in part to keep youths from running through the lot after what he thought was a shoplifting spree at the store.

However, Thrifty Manager Norman Howe said he has rarely experienced problems with the youths who hang around the store just before it opens at 8 a.m.

"They're only waiting for school to open. Maybe once out of a couple thousand times I'll catch them stealing a candy bar or something, but I catch many more adults shoplifting than those kids," he said.

He added that managers of the neighboring bank

$12,000 youth grant received

Last Friday, the Lemon Grove Prevention Project was awarded a $12,000 grant from the county Office of Education to fund non-school activities for Lemon Grove School District middle school students.

This is the first year of the Community Alternative Activities Program (CAAP) grants which are funded through state bills 920 and 921, the substance-abuse education and prevention acts.

According to Karen La Bonte of the county Office of Education's Well-Being Unit, the county office has received $67,000 in grant funds for programs designed to provide "positive, supervised activities during non-school hours."

Grant proposals were required to be jointly developed by a community-based organization, a school district and a youth-service agency.

Collaborators on the local project, entitled the Lemon Grove Youth Program, include the Lemon Grove School District and the city's Parks and Recreation Department.

"We know the schools can't do everything by themselves, so this grant was developed to ensure collaboration with community groups so that a network for kids is established," she explained.

LaBonte said the programs encourage student input as to how a program will be structured and what it will offer.

"Students will be asked what they want to see in a program rather than having everything already decided," she said, adding that parents will also be included in the program planning.

According to Karen Zaustinsky, director of the Lemon Grove Project which wrote the grant proposal, the purpose of such programs is to reduce alcohol and drug use by "providing kids with activities which are fun alternatives and develop personal skills." She said students wanting to participate in the program will meet weekly at the city recreation center and probably plan field trips and other activities and develop community service projects.

The program will be open to students ages 11-15, and those who attend private schools are also welcome. Three grants were recently awarded, and two grants are still waiting for applicants located in the southern and northern sections of the county, she said.

had informed him that the fence was erected to keep pedestrian traffic out of the bank's drive-through lanes, with no youth shoplifting concerns mentioned.

Skillman could not be reached for clarification.

Detective Kathy O'Connell of the Lemon Grove Sheriff's substation said gang activity has been on the rise lately in Lemon Grove and Spring Valley, and spilling into La Mesa.

She said that in the last two weeks, there have been two gang-related shootings involving Helix High School students. The second incident, which occurred along Lemon Grove Way, followed the first by 45 minutes and was in retaliation for the initial incident at a taco shop near the school, O'Connell said.

"It was a clash between a predominantly black gang and a predominantly Hispanic gang over some insult. The Hispanic gang shot at the black gang first, and then the black gang retaliated, seriously injuring a Hispanic member in the leg," she said.

She said that there are two gangs which claim Lemon Grove as their territory, both are predominately Hispanic. She asked that the names of the gangs not be printed, since deputies believe gangs enjoy such notoriety.

Since she is no longer assigned to a Lemon Grove beat, she had no firsthand knowledge of incidents at the Lemon Grove Avenue shopping center.

However, she noted that youths who emulate gang dress and behavior may just be wannabes who hang around gang members for the alcohol which they can provide.

"The wanna-bes are not going to be riding along on drive-by shootings, because they aren't trusted enough," she said.

According to Merino, two students were suspended for bringing weapons to school last year, but no such incidents have occurred this school year.

Lemon Grove nurse to join Latvia medical effort

Lemon Grove resident Donna Lupinacci, an emergency room nurse at Kaiser Hospital, is one of 27 medical volunteers recruited by Southwest Medical Teams, a San Diego international nonprofit relief organization, to teach critical care and emergency medicine techniques in Riga, Latvia this month.

Lupinacci will leave San Diego today and return Oct. 25. She will serve as a member on one of four teams, which will teach Pediatric Advanced Life Support (PALS) and Advanced Cardiac Life Support, courses established by the American Heart Association as the standards for emergency health care in the U.S.A. This will be Lupinacci's second assignment with Southwest Medical Teams, having already served as a member of the teams' disaster relief unit during the Los Angeles earthquake last January.

The teams will teach a total of 100 Latvian physicians and nurses, bringing the total trained by Southwest Medical Teams' volunteers to 150. The syllabus of each course has been translated into Latvian by SMT volunteers throughout the U.S.

The ultimate goal of the program is to create a nucleus of Latvian ACLS and PALS instructors, who will promulgate these standards throughout Latvia in the years to come.

During the 50-year occupation of Latvia by the Soviets, the Latvian medical community had for all intents and purposes been isolated from modern western techniques and technologies, particularly in the area of critical care and emergency medicine, which has adversely affected the level of emergency care given to Latvian patients. The standards established by these courses will significantly increase the quality of emergency care which Latvian health care professionals can provide their people.

Founded in 1988 as a vehicle for volunteer action, Southwest Medical Teams has helped victims of earthquakes (Armenia 1988, San Francisco Bay 1989, Los Angeles 1994), victims of floods (Hurricane Gilbert 1988, Hurricane Hugo 1989, and the Midwest floods 1993) and victims of war (Kurdish Refugee Crisis 1991, Croatia/Bosnia-Herzegovina 1991-present, and Rwanda 1994), by mobilizing medical and non-medical volunteers for short term service.

In addition to working in Latvia since 1991, Southwest Medical Teams also has an ongoing medical training program in Romania, and a public health construction project in Baja, Calif.

Lemon Grove landmark absorbed by Heilig-Meyers

Recently, names on all eight San Diego County McMahan's Furniture stores were changed to Heilig-Meyers Furniture, reflecting that Virginia-based company's buyout of McMahan's Furniture-Carlsbad's 92 stores, 60 of which are located in Southern California.

The Lemon Grove store opened at its Broadway location about 40 years ago. Other store locations in the county include El Cajon, National City, Imperial Beach, Chula Vista, Escondido, Oceanside and San Diego.

Though the acquisition began in January, store names did not change until several weeks ago, explained Rod McMahan, who has been named Heilig-Meyers Furniture's western manager.

The grandson of one of the McMahan brothers who began the family-owned business in 1919, McMahan said his division of McMahan's approached the Virginia-based Heilig-Meyers about acquiring his company.

"We were never in any financial jeopardy - we were very successful - but we saw this as an opportunity for them, since both our companies were very similar in philosophy, operation and target markets," McMahan said.

He explained that both companies offer mid-range priced high quality merchandise, with stores located in smaller communities. He said the management and staff of the Lemon Grove store will remain the same as the store goes through its transition which should be complete by January. An addition to the store will be a jewelry department, a feature of all Heilig-Meyers stores.

McMahan explained that though he has sold his company, the McMahan's Furniture-Santa Monica division, a separate entity, still remains. He said that different family members owned and operated divisions of McMahan's, and at one time, seven separate divisions existed. In recent years, stores had been consolidated into two divisions, with only the one division, which includes 50 stores, now remaining as McMahan's Furniture.

B-Words Personal comments of Mayor Bob Burns

Next to the Fire Department consolidation issue, the 800-megahertz system costs are raising a public storm in our city. The council has decided to be part of the County Service Area (CSA) which will cost up to two million dollars. This is an advanced communication system that is needed in our everyday safety concerns, as well as in disaster preparedness. All safety services need to be able to communicate efficiently with one another, and that is a basic fact. Certainly we would not need such facilities if nothing were ever to happen, but then we could say the same for police, firemen, hospitals, etc.

The problem is how do we pay for it. The Sheriffs Department will just add the cost on to our contract for their police services, unless we make arrangements to pay for it ourselves. So, being between a rock and a hard place, it will cost us ultimately no matter what.

We could take the whole amount (approximately up to $2 million) out of our reserve account, and all but eliminate the city's "savings account" that is our rainy day insurance. Or we could assess our residents on their tax bills, yearly until it is paid off. The costs for each dwelling unit is estimated at between $6.02 and $29.61 per year. This would not be an unending tax, but more a time payment on a fixed principal. If this method were to be chosen, it would spread the costs of the upgrade over the entire population of our city that benefits from it. Also it would keep our "savings account" intact. I have heard it said that "we have all this money" in reference to our reserve fund, and "why shouldn't we spend it?" In my opinion, the reserve fund is to cover contingencies of all sorts that may rise up in our community. It may be a new fire truck, or more police, or some calamity that might occur. Of course we hope and pray that such will not happen but even if it remains that our rainy day money is not needed, it is still there to provide insurance for same. It will not be lost or disappear.

It also is being said that the issue should go to a vote. Aside from being expensive, I am not sure that it would be resultant in a wise decision. A two-thirds majority would be virtually impossible no matter how much the issue would need passing. I think that this is one of those hard decisions that we council persons must have the courage to make, despite the political correctness, and earn the big bucks we are paid ... It would be certainly safe to have a public vote on everything, but then there would really be no need for the council, would there?

Possibly it might be a better idea to split the cost between the assessment and the reserve funds. Take half of the cost out of our reserves and then charge between $3 and $15 per dwelling unit each year until paid. If this would not create a dangerous precedent, it might be the way to go.

This is being written before the details are all decided, and I am sure that the council has an open mind on the implementation of the issue. We still need the system, will have it whether we like it or not, and will have to pay for it. I know that Lemon Grove will make its own decision, and not have to "follow the lead" of other cities, to do the right thing. Public input is welcomed and even begged for in all such matters.

P.S. If you think this is a biggie, just wait till the Nov. 1, public hearing on the Fire Department merger question. I would hope that every single person in Lemon Grove will attend that one.

Helix Happenings

by Danielle M. White

Homecoming '94 is coming next week. Spirit week starts Oct. 18, as there is no school on Monday, Oct. 17. Students are encouraged to vote by donation for the teacher to be selected to kiss the pig during an assembly. Teacher nominees are Principal Smith, Mrs. Boemke, Mr. Funk and Mr. Geary. Proceeds are used for the fireworks spectacular during the halftime show at homecoming, when Helix takes on Vahalla.

Hello Cleopatra! The theme for spirit week is "Egyptian." Starting off with an Egyptian hat day on Tuesday, Robes and sandals on Wednesday, Cleopatra and Antony day on Thursday. Friday brings the return of the dead - mummy day. It will be a "dead" Friday for Vahalla's football team as well.

Oct. 24 - 29 is Red Ribbon Week! Say no to drugs and show your pride in being part of a program of drug-free teens. Mrs. Vassar will have a table displaying pamphlets about drug use, drug information and help and info lines, as she does every day. Officers of the La Mesa Police Department will also be on campus to spread the word.

Literary Magazine club won't be meeting until Monday, Oct. 24, due to the staff development day on Oct. 17. Same goes for other clubs which also meet on Mondays. Also, the Literary Magazine is looking for a sponsor or sponsors to provide prizes for poetry, artwork, stories and photography contest winners - in exchange for a free full-page ad in the May 1995 edition of the publication. For more information, call the Helix office at 466-4193 and ask to speak with Mrs. Jessica Patton. This is an excellent opportunity to support literature and creative talents of today's youth!

Saturday, Oct. 15, is campus clean-up day. Meet on the football field at 8 a.m. For more information, call PTSA campus pride coordinator Mrs. Rebecca Cates at 464-7138

Attention grades 7-12! Mrs. Skullerud has applications in the library for a "Caring Essay Contest," with prizes of $50, $75 and $100 savings bonds. The 1,000 word essay is due by Nov. 11.

Tuesday, Oct. 18, students prepping for the SAT test meet from 6 to 8:45 p.m. in room 520. The course is conducted by Mr. Geary and Mr. Ehlers. Students wanting to improve their chances on the SAT should check it out.

Congratulations to Mrs. Laura Boemke for winning the "Hats Off to Teachers" award earlier this month.

Hospital providing trainers to high schools

Football season is well under way at area high schools. In an attempt to prevent or reduce the severity of football-related injuries, Alvarado Hospital Medical Center is participating in an important community service that benefits football players and other young athletes at nine San Diego County high schools.

Program director Linda Esqueria explained that the High School Athletic Training Program provides certified trainers who work at each of the schools from 20 to 25 hours a week.

The trainers are graduate students at San Diego State University.

"The students receive a stipend which is funded by each individual school, Alvarado Hospital, Caremark San Diego Sports Medicine Center and San Diego Sports Medicine Orthopedic and Family Health Center.

"The main focus of the program is injury prevention and management," she said. "For example, stretching and conditioning programs, taping and proper equipment fitting can help reduce both the number and severity of injuries.

"Should injuries occur, the trainers can provide immediate injury care and, if necessary, direct the athlete and his/her parents to appropriate medical care and/or treatment," she said. "Following acute injury treatment, the athletic trainers are on-site to monitor progress and implement rehabilitation programs, progressing athletes back to play."

Helix High School was one of the pilot schools for the cooperative program. "We have been in the High School Athletic Training Program for seven years and, quite frankly, we couldn't do without it," said Jim Arnaiz, athletic director and head football coach at Helix. "In terms of risk management, this is one of the most positive additions we've had

County aims to increase access to flu shots

County Health Services is beginning its annual Influenza Immunization Campaign this year on Oct. 17. Officials predict greater access to flu immunization since Medicare will reimburse health care providers for the cost of the flu vaccine and the cost of its administration to persons qualifying for this service under Medicare.

"We hope to enable more people who need the flu shot to attend one of our flu immunization clinics," said Robert K. Ross, M.D., county health officer. "And, in view of the reimbursement provision, persons on Medicare may wish to go to their physician.

Flu shots will be offered at County Public Health Centers (and other locations) in special clinics and in regularly scheduled immunization clinics while vaccine supplies last.

Flu immunization information lines are being established to provide a taped message on eligibility, sites, dates, and hours of the immunization clinics. For information, call 236-2351.

Immunizations will be provided to the following:

- Persons over 59 years of age;
- Adults and children with chronic cardiovascular or pulmonary system conditions (including children with asthma), kidney or metabolic diseases (including diabetes mellitus), anemia, or an impaired immune system serious enough to have required follow-up or hospitalization within the last year;
- Persons infected with HIV, the virus that causes AIDS;
- Children and teenagers (6 months through 18 years) on long-term aspirin therapy;
- Household members of persons in the above risk groups; and Children and teenagers 6 months through 17 years of age will only be given flu vaccine by appointment to prevent accidents. When an accident does occur, the trainer is right there to see that the athletes get appropriate treatment and follow-up."

Other local high schools involved in the High School Athletic Training Program include Patrick Henry, Horizon Christian, Monte Vista, Granite Hills, West Hills, El Capitan, Francis Parker and Christian.

because a more extensive medical history and different vaccine dosages are generally needed.

Adults receiving the flu immunization at County Health Services clinics may also obtain the pneumococcal and tetanus-diphtheria vaccines, if the shots are indicated.

There is a $7 fee for each shot, which may be waived if the person is unable to pay.

Shakespeare coming to ECPAC

The highly acclaimed California Shakespeare Festival is coming to El Cajon with a one-time performance of "The Taming of the Shrew," 7 p.m. Oct. 28 at Theatre East, 210 East Main St.

The Bard's own axiom, "The course of true love never did run smooth," has never been more hilariously demonstrated then in this rambunctious story of Kate and Petruchio, who battle their way toward the altar in a titanic clash of wills.

"The zesty energy between men and women will be key to this production," said director Jeffery Bihr. "The twists, turns and surprises of the show will be peppered with a hint of magic - expect to see a very physical show - lots of humor, clownish, slapstick-style, racy, sexy and fun."

Bihr sets the comedy in a timeless world, employing a broad comedy style drawn from commedia dell' arte.

The battling duo is played by Molly Mayock as Kate and Robert Sicular as Petruchio. Lee Ann Mankey plays Kate's sister, Bianca, with L. Peter Callender as Bianca's suitor, Luentio.

Ticket prices are $20, $16, $14 (seniors) and $8 (students). For further information, call 440-2277.

Brownie, Star of the Safety Fair

Everyone knows that lots of women have a special feeling about men in uniform - and especially the guys at the Lemon Grove Fire Station.

But for the younger crowd, the guys can't hold a candle to the dogs. In this picture, the younger set was loving Brownie, a search and rescue dog.

And another hit with the kids is McGruff, the crime fighter - who takes a bite out of crime. John Greene of the Lemon Grove Sheriff's Station can usually be found at area parades and safety fairs sweating it out inside the McGruff persona.

Now that the fire-fighters' breakfast and safety fair are over, don't forget to check or change the battery in your smoke alarm.

The Lemon Grove Review is delivered each week by mail, anywhere in San Diego, for only $15 per year. Why not give a gift subscription to a friend?

The Dragon Kingdom at 6425 University Ave. features an all-you-can-eat buffet everyday. Lunch is served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and dinner is from 3 to 9 p.m.

The restaurant is under new management, and during the grand opening period you can get a free drink with the $3.99 lunch or $4.99 dinner buffet with the coupons found in this issue of the La Mesa Forum.

Great Chinese cuisine is found at the Dragon Kingdom, and there are specials daily like shrimp in lobster sauce served all day Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday. Bar-B-Q spareribs are served Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and Moo-shu chicken and fried shrimp are served everyday at dinner.

The Dragon Kingdom has a healthy alternative because there is no MSG added to the dishes, and everything is cooked in purified water. Cholesterol-free oil is used, and low sodium and low-saturated fat are part of the cooking.
